

Hand Release System Application

This is the preferred method of application of Df Series Brakes in which the system is mechanically released with the help of a lever on the brake whenever required. (Usually preferred in outdoor elevators, stage systems, and conveyor systems.) This feature must be specified with the order.

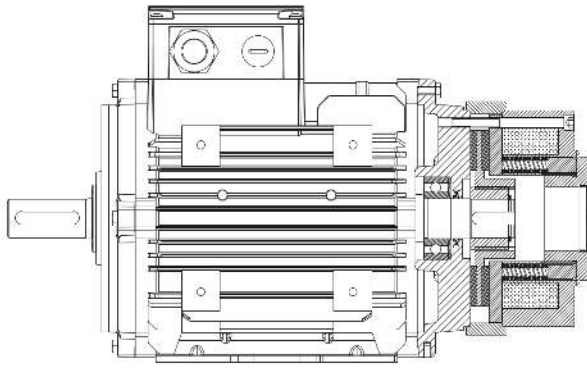

Axial Force Fans Application

Df Series in brakes, it is the preferred type of application for systems that have a long operating time and frequent opening and shutting and high ambient temperature. This feature must be specified with the order.

DF

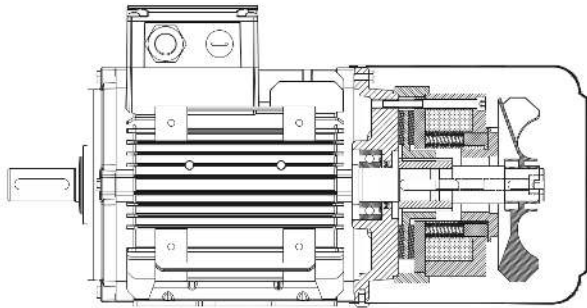

SERIES

Brake Models & Assembly Applications

Non-Ventilated Type Assembled to the Motor

Df Series is the standart mounting type for brakes. It is preferred in systems that do not require frequent switching on and off.

Ventilated Type Assembled to the Motor

Df series in brakes ,it is the preferred type of application for systems that require frequent opening and closing of brakes. This feature must be specified with the order.